HON. E. C. MANNING

Even the most casual review of the past year makes it obvious to all of us that there has been anything but an improvement in the international situation in the past months, making the need for an alert, efficient defence organization possibly greater at this time than at any time since the establishment of the organization in Alberta.

To all Civil Defence workers throughout the Province who are displaying a fine sense of public service, I would extend every good wish for a happy and purposeful New Year.

In extending this wish, I would also like to express on behalf of the Government of Alberta sincere appreciation for the many hours which have been devoted to Civil Defence organization and for the willing co-operation of all those citizens of our Province who voluntarily devote so much of their own time to this important task.

HON. L. C. HALMRAST

It is a pleasure to have, once again, the opportunity of extending to all members of Alberta Civil Defence Organizations my heartiest greetings and good wishes for Christmas and the New Year now fast approaching.

For well over 1900 years, this time of the year has been associated in the Christian tradition with "Peace on earth and Goodwill toward men". Unfortunately, there is, perhaps, less real goodwill now than ever before between nations and peoples, and certainly only an uneasy peace prevails. For those reasons, therefore, we must remain on guard; we must continue to prepare for the worst, even though we earnestly hope and pray that the worst will not eventuate. Not the least important of national preparations must be the continued advancement of Civil Defence plans to which you have all contributed substantially in the past.

[Faint, illegible handwritten notes]

Let us, then, neither flag nor fail during 1957 in our efforts to do our share in safeguarding the lives and well-being of all our citizens.

AIR VICE-MARSHAL G. R. HOWSAM, C.B., M.C.

The sixth year in the development of Civil Defence in Alberta is drawing to a close. These years have brought about a steady measure of understanding and development, and we are most grateful to the many citizens of our Province, who have given so much to the building of the Civil Defence Corps.

It has been my high privilege during the past year to travel about the Alberta country-side and to see at first hand what the Civil Defence Units in many municipalities were doing. I am glad to report that steady progress has been made, both in the municipalities and also in our Provincial Training Schools.

And so it is with a feeling of deep appreciation that I, as Co-ordinator, accepted the opportunity of sending my personal greetings and warm thanks to every member of the Alberta Civil Defence Corps.

I wish you all, most sincerely, a very happy Christmas and the best of luck in 1957.

THE CIVIL DEFENCE CORPS AND THE MILITARY FORCES

It is generally agreed that the primary aim of Civil Defence is to prevent the unnecessary loss of life, and it is suggested that the ultimate aim is to keep the Home Front strong.

For many decades the British and the American Navies have kept our North American Home Front secure from an overseas surprise attack. That condition of security continued to prevail during World War II, owing to our great geographical distance from the centres of military conflict. But the intercontinental long range bombers and fighters, coupled with the provision of the "A" bomb and the "H" bomb -- as readily deliverable unlimited packages of destruction -- have completely destroyed our North American geographical and naval security shield.

Now, instead of months and years to get ready for all-out war, we can expect about three hours minimum warning, provided our Radar Warning Lines and our other warning arrangements function properly. Now, our entire population, together with our centres of war production, will all be in the front line. In fact, our key centres of population and of war production -- together with our Military Bases -- will of necessity become the enemy's priority targets. All of which make it necessary for us to examine and determine, most clearly, not only the individual war-time roles of the Civil Defence Corps and of the Military Forces, but more particularly their combined tasks, which will require the closest understanding and co-operation.

The members of the Civil Defence Corps in Alberta highly appreciate the many ways in which the Military Forces have co-operated with us, and we are glad indeed to reciprocate in every possible way. Later in this issue reference is made to combined courses of training in Rescue work. It is a case of working together for the common good, which will help to keep our Home Front strong.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

"Civil Defence, while not a purely Federal responsibility, is an essential part of the nation's total defence effort. Preparation for civil defence is an immense, complex, thankless and sometimes frustrating task, but it can only succeed if governments at all levels and individual men and women across Canada are prepared to accept their responsibilities of citizenship in mature awareness of the heavy obligation that has been thrust on this generation to help safeguard the future of human civilization."

(From a speech by the Honourable Paul Martin
Minister of National Health & Welfare, in the House of Commons, on 28th July, 1956.)
